

Transfer of Copyright Agreement

Scientific publishers and authors share a common interest in the protection of copyright: authors principally because they want their creative work to be protected from plagiarism and other unlawful uses, publishers because they need to protect their work and investment in the publication, marketing and distribution of the article written by the author(s) for each article being published. We therefore would like you to complete and return this form promptly, retaining a copy for your records. Your co-operation is essential and appreciated.

Article title:

The Proceedings of the 12th International Conference on Fluidized Bed Technology will be published by:

Fundacja dla Akademii Górniczo-Hutniczej
im. Stanisława Staszica w Krakowie
al. Mickiewicza 30, 30-059 Kraków

Effective upon acceptance for publication, copyright (including all rights thereunder and the right to obtain copyright registration in the name of the publisher, where separately or as a part of proceedings or otherwise) in the above article is hereby transferred throughout the world and for the full term and all extensions and renewals thereof, to Chemical Industry Press.

This transfer includes the right to adapt the article for use in conjunction with computer systems and programs, including reproduction or publication in machine-readable form and incorporation in retrieval systems.

Rights of authors

The publisher recognizes the retention of the following rights by the author(s):

1. Patent and trademark rights and any process or procedure described in the article.
2. The right to photocopy or make single electronic copies of the article for their own personnel use, including for their own classroom use, or for the personal use of colleagues, provided the copies are not offered for sale and are not distributed in a systematic way outside for their employing institution (e.g. via an e-mail list or public file server). Posting of the article on a secure network (not accessible to the public) within the author's institution is permitted.
3. The right, subsequently to publication, to use the article or any part thereof free of charge in a printed compilation of works of their own, such as collected writing or lecture notes.

Information to authors

1. In connection with its publishing activities, it is the policy of CIP to own the copyrights and the contributions contained therein in order to protect the interests of CIP, its authors and their employers, and at the same time to facilitate the appropriate re-use of this material by others.
2. If the author(s) is employed and the paper was prepared as condition of employment, the rights to the paper initially rest with the employer. In that case, when the author signs the copyright transfer form, it is assumed that he or she is authorized to do so by the employer and that the employer has consented to all the terms and conditions of this form. If not, the form should be signed by someone so authorized.
3. For jointly authored papers, only one signature is required, but it is assumed that all authors have been advised and have consented to the terms of this form.
4. If copyright is held by the employer, the employer or an authorized representative of the employer must sign. If the author signs, it is understood that this is with the authorization of the employer and the employer's acceptance of the terms of the transfer.

Warranties

The author(s) warrant(s) that the article is the author's original work and has not been submitted or published elsewhere. The author(s) warrant(s) that the article contains no libelous or other unlawful statements, and does not infringe on the rights of others. If except from copyright works are included, the author(s) has (have) obtained or will obtain written permission from the copyrights owners and will credit the sources in the article.

Preprints

The author(s) must agree that if a prior version of this work (normally a preprint) has been posted to an electric public server, they will not update and/or replace the prior version in order to make it identical in contents to the final published version.
